

PADI Dry Suit Diver

The water temperature will not always be 20 degrees or more. If you want to dive comfortably even in colder waters, use a dry suit. Learn how to use one by enrolling yourself to a PADI Dry Suit Diver course with Evasioni Blu Diving Ustica - Palermo (Sicily).

PADI Dry Suit Diver Program

What you will learn during your PADI Dry Suit Diver course:

- The various types of wetsuits and drysuits and underwear and how to treat them
- Procedures and techniques for diving with a dry suit
- Possible problems with diving with a dry suit and how to solve them
- Maintenance and minor repairs of a dry suit
- How to control buoyancy with a dry suit

The PADI Dry Suit Diver course is divided into three main parts:

1. Knowledge development (individual and classroom study)
2. A pool dive to learn the skills for the use of a dry suit
3. Two dives in open water to practice the skills of diving with a dry suit

PADI Dry Suit Diver Prerequisites

(Junior) Open Water Diver

Credit/Certification PADI Dry Suit Diver

By completing your course you will receive your PADI Dry Suit Diver specialty certification. Some dive centers and some dive sites require a Dry Suit Diver license to dive in cold waters. This certification can be credited as an adventure dive for your PADI Adventure Diver or PADI Advanced Open Water Diver course.
